

Exam - Terms and conditions

Duration	90 Minutes
Max. Points possible	See Table of Content.
Permitted exam aids	One (single) A4 sheet of handwritten notes (front- and back). It can be prepared digitally, but the original document has to be hand-written (text and graphics). That means you can prepare on paper and by hand, then scan, zoom, and print multiple such pages on the “One Single Sheet”, as long as the content on the document is visibly from hand-written origin.
Prohibited exam aids	Everything that is not listed under “Permitted exam aids”.
Exam Type	Moodle-based exam, i.e. questions provided on paper, answers on Moodle.
Questions	Questions are ordered by topic and not by difficulty or required effort. Only distinct and precise answers will be evaluated. In doubt, feel free to add your assumptions attached to a question to provide context to your response. If syntax (code or terminal commands) is requested but you don't recall it by heart, feel free to provide indicative approximations. Also, mind the Annex, in which extracts of documentation (e.g. man pages) are provided.
Points	The maximum number of points is declared for each question in square brackets. For a grade of 6.0 not all points are required.
Exam modalities	Put your last name, first name and class in the defined fields of the first sheet of the exam. Put your last name, first name and class on your exam aid. If you are removing the paper clip from the exam, each sheet has to be labeled with your name and class. Do not use additional paper. If you run out of space, ask the exam supervisor for additional papers. Only the answers inserted in Moodle will be evaluated (not what you wrote on the provided papers). At the end of the exam, put the exam sheets into the exam folder and deposit it on your table. The exam has to be returned entirely, i.e. all sheets including additional notes taken and the Annex.

The exam aid has to be handed in as well. Make sure it has your name on it. It will be returned, on request, during the post-exam review session.

We wish you great success.
